VOLUME VI CONTRIBUTORS

Chögyam Trungpa, Rinpoche (1940-1987), scholar and meditation master, was one of the most renowned teachers of Buddhism in the West. He was Founder and President of The Naropa Institute.

Edward M. Podvoll, M.D. is Director of the Department of Contemplative Psychotherapy at The Naropa Institute, and is supervisor of psychotherapy at The Friendship House, Boulder, Colorado.

Dr. Trogawa, Rinpoche is a Buddhist lama, medical doctor, and authority on the Tibetan medical tradition. He was formerly teaching master at The Tibetan Medical Institute in Dharamsala, India. He travels widely, practicing medicine and teaching, and is currently working to establish the Chakpori Medical Institute in Nepal.

Ken Mcleod has been a student of Buddhism for twenty years. He is resident teacher at the Kagyü Do-nga Chöling Buddhist Center in Los Angeles and is a translator of Tibetan texts, including Great Path of Awakening (Boston: Shambhala, 1987). At present he is developing a counseling and small group approach to meditation instruction and spiritual training.

Rachel Corday is the artistic director of the Corday Actors' Studio in Denver, and editor of the New Dawn audio tape series on major mental illness.

Jeffrey M. Fortuna, M.A. is Program Director of The Friendship House and is currently working with therapeutic households in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The Journal of Contemplative Psychotherapy is published annually by The Naropa Institute. No part of this volume may be reproduced in any form (except for brief quotations, not to exceed 500 words, in a review or professional work) without permission in writing from the author and publisher. All rights to articles revert to authors.

Papers which address any aspect of psychology and psychotherapy will be considered for publication, but preference will be given to those including clear descriptions of clinical application and its relation to personal contemplative practice. Manuscripts should be double-spaced and submitted in triplicate to: The Editor, Journal of Contemplative Psychotherapy, The Naropa Institute, 2130 Arapahoe Ave., Boulder, CO 80302. The APA form is the preferred style of annotation and copyright clearance must be obtained by the author for all quotations from published works which exceed the permitted maximum. A list of endnote and bibliographic references should be provided on a separate sheet.

Authors may order offprints of their articles prior to printing.

Annual subscriptions are not available at this time. For information on back issues, write to Journal of Contemplative Psychotherapy, The Naropa Institute, 2130 Arapahoe Ave., Boulder, CO 80302.
